

SALEM I-DAY DEALS livingsocial GET TODAY'S DEAL! www.LivingSocial.com Ads by Google

Gulu Haiku

By Glen Hughes on April 8th, 2008
 1 Comment
 Categories: art, events

We attended the inaugural night of the Witch City Poetry Series, Sunday at Gulu-Gulu Cafe. It was a new and enriching experience. As an ode to poetry month (thats right April is poetry month) here are some thoughts. You should make it down next week.

Salem poetry
 every Sunday in April
 at Gulu-Gulu

Mr. Chris brought it poets came from all around sharing lines of prose

hippy and beatnik aloof and lost in head space swirling in themselves where would we find art without keen introspection open up your eyes

art and life exist outside the sheltered confine of your liberal life

I look forward to spending Sundays in April waxing poetic

livingocial DO BOSTON CHEAP with Daily Deals GET TODAY'S DEAL! tracking.livingsocial.com Ads by Google

salemsider salemsider
 All the bikers are now in town. If you are hungry don't bother with a restaurant, hit a vendor instead <http://twitpic.com/2yiwil> yesterday Tomorrow is the Salem Harley ride @1:30 plan ahead as streets will be blocked off yesterday Family Fright Night Movie Series on Salem Common 6-8pm. Tonight's free movie: Ghostbusters! Better bundle up, it's COLD out there! 2 days ago Salem Harvest Fest today: 2-4:30pm and 5:30-8pm, sponsored by Magic Hat & Pamplemousse! Go to the site for more info: <http://ow.ly/2Uv3Y> 2 days ago twitter Join the conversation

TheSalemInsider.com

Any comments to this post should be in poetic form 😊